

Two for the Price of One

Responding to challenging new demands on their Medicaid information technology systems, Illinois and Michigan have become the first two states to form a partnership to share a cloud-based IT system, which will replace their decades-old systems and save each state tens of millions of dollars. Read Full Article

Responding to challenging new demands on their Medicaid information technology systems, Illinois and Michigan have become the first two states to form a partnership to share a cloud-based IT system, which will replace their decades-old systems and save each state tens of millions of dollars. Read Full Article